LIFE AIRBNB SWITZERLAND

A prank Airbnb listing for $1,300 for a night in a shop window display has backfired after an American tourist snapped it up.

The listing was supposed to serve as a joke as part of the international Art Basel art fair in Switzerland, but the stunt went in an unexpected direction when a user of the online accommodation website snapped up the offer to stay at the Kleinbasel Leihlager store on Feldbergstrasse.

Gavin Steiner, a member of the Leihlager team, told Swiss media: "The whole thing was a marketing gimmick, at no time did we assume that someone would actually book or come."

The window was originally listed at $3,393 but the woman's kindhearted hosts renegotiated the bill, and the tourist checked in on June 14.

Uma loja na Basileia (Suíça) anunciou no Airbnb a sua vitrine. Era uma brincadeira, como parte da Art Basel, uma feira de arte na cidade.
